Research Experience

Mar 2025–Present	Research Collaboration with Professor Yiling Zhao • Collected 40,000 student descriptions from U.S. college yearbooks during the 1900s-1930s; used NLP techniques (word-bag model and BERT fine-tuning) to examine how coeducation changed the use of gendered language and the topics discussed.	School of Economics, Peking University
Jun 2025–Present	Research Collaboration with Professors Zenan Wu and Shanglv Deng • Worked on industrial organization models of platform markets, using analytical and numerical methods to study platform and seller behavior when consumers can observe product prices.	School of Economics, Peking University
Sep 2025–Oct 2025	Research Assistant to Professor Tianyang Xi • Cross-checked biographical records of Chinese government officials against publicly available sources.	National School of Development, Peking University

Independent Research

Oct 2025–Present	From Land to Liquidity: Acquisition Compensation and Local Population Reallocation in Taiwan's Land-to-the-Tiller Reform • Collected official statistics data from county yearbooks and JCRR reports; designed identification strategy according to the 1953 Land-to-the-Tiller Reform Act's details on compensation for land acquisition; used difference-in-differences and event-study methods to estimate the reform's effects on local population reallocation, by forcibly changing the liquidity of land assets and pushing migration.	School of Economics, Peking University
Apr 2026–Present	Historical Research on Taiwan's Land Reform • Advised by Professor Geng Tian. Examines institutional, intellectual, and legal continuities and ruptures through reports from the Central Political School's Graduate School of Land Economics, writings by Hsiao Cheng and other reformers, related German and Japanese historical sources (e.g. 'Jahrbuch der Bodenreform'), and legal-historical sources.	Department of Sociology, Peking University
